China and Globalization

“There are few books on China that are this coherent.”—Hong Zhang, East Asian Studies, Colby College

“. . . an exceptional accomplishment that will set the standard for works on China for years to come.”—Lisa Keister, Sociology, Ohio State University

“China and Globalization provides a lot of information in a theoretically-informed way. The writing style is conversational and argumentative, so it is very good to spur discussion.”—Thomas Gold, Sociology, University of California, Berkeley

In its quarter-century-long shift from communism to capitalism, China has transformed itself from a desperately poor nation into a country with one of the fastest-growing and largest economies in the world. Doug Guthrie examines the reforms driving the economic genesis in this compact and highly readable introduction to contemporary China. He highlights the social, cultural and political factors fostering this revolutionary change and interweaves a broad structural analysis with a consideration of social changes at the micro and macro levels.

In this new, revised edition author Guthrie updates his story on modern China and provides the latest authoritative data and examples from current events to chart where this dynamically changing society is headed and what the likely consequences for the rest of the world will be.

Doug Guthrie is Professor of Sociology and Management at New York University's Stern School of Business and Professor of Sociology in NYU's Faculty of Arts and Science.

Global Realities
A Routledge Series

Edited by Charles C. Lemert, Wesleyan University

The Series Global Realities offers concise accounts of how the nations and regions of the world are experiencing the effects of globalization. Richly descriptive yet theoretically informed, each volume shows how individual places are navigating the tension between age-old traditions and the new forces generated by globalization.
